Courtney has been practicing Perfusion between the United States and New Zealand since 2013. She has served on the American Society of Extracorporeal Technology (AmSECT) Board of Directors and is currently a committee member for the International Consortium of Evidence-Based Perfusion.

Courtney has grown to deeply value volunteerism within our community as a way to stay engaged and continue supporting the professions growth for years to come. Over her career, a special focus on education and leadership has guided her into exciting opportunities across the world such as a Perfusionist for Friends of Fiji Heart Mission, guest lecturer for multiple US Perfusion schools and traveling the United States during the covid-19 pandemic to train nurses and respiratory therapists to become ECMO Specialist during an extraordinary clinician staffing crisis.

Courtney and her family recently moved back to Colorado in 2024, and she is focusing on raising her toddler and newborn daughter in this "family first" chapter of life!
